REGISTER NOW FOR FALL COMMUNITY EDUCATION

Boise, ID—09/08/09— Now that your children are settled into their fall educational routine, it's time for the adults in the household to think about learning something new! Boise School District's Community Education program was designed specifically to provide lifelong learning opportunities for all, adults and young alike. With classes such as Landscaping, Beginning Microsoft Excel and Word, and Hula Hoop Tricks, Community Education has something for everyone to enjoy!

Registration for the Community Education fall session is now underway. Classes begin September 28 and run until November 4. To view a list of the classes, and register online, go to the Community Education website, www.boiselearns.org. Printed catalogs will be delivered to Idaho Statesman subscribers this Sunday, September 13. Boise patrons who do not subscribe to the Statesman will have catalogs delivered to their mailboxes on Friday and Saturday.

Community Education is an adult education program, which offers a wide variety of classes, led by volunteer instructors, during evening hours, Monday through Thursday. For more information on classes, fees, or scholarships please call 854-4047.
